Convention Speaker

CONWAY, Ark. (AP)—Bishop D. Frederick Wertz of West Virginia is to be the main speaker today for the third convocation preceding the April 28 inauguration of Dr. Roy B. Shilling Jr. as president of Hendrix College.

Stage Set for Impeachment of Douglas

WASHINGTON (AP)—House Republican Leader Gerald R. Ford has set the stage for a possible impeachment move against Supreme Court Justice William O. Douglas, charging that Douglas may have had long-time ties with gambling and underworld figures. Ford's attack on Douglas, drafted for presentation to the House today, covers a wide range of the 71-year-old Justice's activities, including his voting record on the court, his off-the-bench writings and his relationships with Las Vegas figure Albert Parvin and possibly with Parvin's associates. Douglas' dealings with Parvin began in 1960 when he aided in setting up the Albert Parvin Foundation and became a director and later its president at $12,000 a year. Douglas resigned from the post last May. Ford charges that Parvin has long been connected with underworld figures, the associations dating back as far as 1946 when he was hired by Bugs Siegel to decorate the Flamingo Hotel, a Las Vegas gambling palace.

Petition to Reinstate Mayor Refused

PINE BLUFF, Ark. (AP)—Circuit Court Judge Henry W. Smith of Pine Bluff denied Tuesday a petition to reinstate Jack Halter as acting mayor of Gould. The Gould City Council voted in February to oust Halter as mayor because he allegedly had moved outside the city and vacated the office. Halter filed the petition for reinstatement contending that he had only temporarily moved from Gould and was still a legal resident.

White County Man to Run for Senate

SEARCY, Ark. (AP)—Raymond Morris, a former from the Pleasant Plains community (White County), said today he would be a Democratic candidate for the state Senate from District 18, which is White and Independence counties. Morris is the fourth person to announce for the position, presently held by Sen. Ed Lightle of Searcy, who will not seek reelection. Baha'i Teachings The Baha'i faith advocates peace for the whole world, universal brotherhood of man, compulsory education, harmony of science and religion and the unity of all religions.

SOME VERY (from page one)

your marriage? If you had it all to do over again, wouldn't you rather inherit money than have to pull yourself up by your own bootstraps? Actually, you had more help along the way from others than you care to admit, didn't you? And you left behind you a few unpaid bills—right? While the best friends you have live in the same block with you, the first thing you'd do if you won a $100,000 lottery prize is move to a better neighborhood—isn't that true? Okay, now to your box score. If you answered no to more than half the questions, you are a normal liar and should get along in the world all right. If you answered yes to all of them you are an abnormal fool, too truthful to be trusted, too honest for your own good.

Shopping to Be Subject of Meeting

Is it worth the trouble to shop around to save two or three cents on an item? Does TV influence your grocery shopping? Where are the most economical items in a supermarket? Does the color of the package determine which one you will choose? These questions and many more will be discussed by Miss Delores McBride, County Home Extension Agent, Thursday night 7:30 at the Home Economics Cottage at Hope High School. "How to Save Money in Shopping for Food" is the theme for the fourth session of adult classes being offered by the Home Economics Department in Consumer Education. On April 20 Mrs. Clarece Glad-den who is head of the Committee for Consumer Protection in Arkansas will be guest speaker in a program on frauds and deceptions. Mr. B.N. Holt from the Hope Chamber of Commerce will be present to explain what you can do locally if you feel you have been victimized. This program begins at 7:30 and is the final program in the series. Previous classes have dealt with home money management with Robert Vandivere, Associate County Extension Agent, as guest speaker; and consumer credit and savings and investments with Bill Butler of Citizens National Bank and Charles E. Sharpe of First National Bank as guest speakers. "It is not necessary that you attend all classes. If you have not previously attended, please come and join us for any class you choose," explained Mrs. W. F. Clark and Mrs. Estelle Spearman, Home Economics Instructors.

U of A Professor to Join OU

NORMAN, Okla. (AP)—Dr. Robert R. Wright, a University of Arkansas law professor, will become dean of the Oklahoma University School of Law effective next fall.

ing the people of a historic massacre when "the Khmers once rose up and killed all Annamites on Cambodian territory in one night." At least 73 Vietnamese who had been rounded up in the town of Prasaut for security checks were killed there last Friday, and according to available evidence Cambodian troops were the killers. On Saturday at least seven more Vietnamese were shot by Cambodian troops just south of Kamolng Trabek, near the border west of Prasaut.

ling problems of this kind. Hope has on several occasions been commended for the operation of the present disposal system, and during the past year received a commendation from the Pollution Control Division. They said it was one of the best operations in the state, but it fails to meet the requirements of the new law. Any change at all will cause considerable increase in the cost of trash and garbage disposal. The Police Department presented a survey of all the loading zones now designated in the downtown area along with recommendations that some of them be abandoned, or made available for use of the general public. The Board voted to refer the report and suggestions to the downtown merchants association for their study and recommendations.

First Major Operation in Cambodia

SAIGON (AP)—South Vietnamese troops, operating with a token force of Cambodians, smashed a North Vietnamese base camp inside Cambodia Tuesday in the first major combined operation reported in the war, informed sources said today. South Vietnamese headquarters claimed 179 North Vietnamese were killed, 30 persons detained, and 550 straw huts and bunkers destroyed. It said the assault was made half a mile on the South Vietnamese side of the border 42 miles northwest of Saigon. President Nguyen Van Thieu also denied that South Vietnamese troops had crossed the border. But eyewitnesses said the joint task force of more than 2,000 South Vietnamese and 100 Cambodians pushed at least a mile inside Cambodia south of Highway One. The witnesses said the Cambodians, clearly distinguishable by their uniforms, were under command of the South Vietnamese. Some were riding tanks and armored personnel carriers. Most carried Soviet AK47 assault rifles, but some carried American carbines and drew their ammunition, mortar shells, food and water, from the South Vietnamese. The witnesses said they saw no U.S. advisers cross the border with the South Vietnamese units. Instead the Americans observed the operations from the South Vietnamese border post on the main Saigon-Phnom Penh highway which North Vietnamese rockets and assault troops wrecked in an attack Monday night.

BRIDE-ELECT IS HONORED

On April 10 Mrs. Herman Smith honored Miss Kathleen Rahtz, fiancée of her son, Tony Smith, with an Open House at the Smith home on Park Drive.

Greeting the guests at the door was Mrs. Helen Hatch. Receiving the guests with Mrs. Smith and Miss Rahtz were Mrs. Baldwin Rahtz of Fayetteville, mother of the honoree, and Mrs. Ronnie Smith of El Dorado.

Presiding at the guest book was Miss Cynthia Edwards of Camden. The table was covered with white taffeta overlaid with white net. A memory candle entwined with ivy marked the place where the guests registered.

The serving table was covered with white taffeta with a white net overlay. An arrangement of yellow mums and candles in a silver epergne provided the centerpiece. Alternating at the coffee service were Mrs. Arch Wylie and Mrs. Bob Turner. Pouring the yellow frosted punch was Mrs. Elmer Brown. Mrs. Curtis Anderson served the frosted cake squares that were decorated with yellow rosettes.

Arrangements of yellow spring flowers and candles were seen at vantage points in the home. The honoree and other members of the receiving line had corsages of white carnations. Members of the house party had yellow mums. Mrs. Clara Smith and Mrs. Clyde Smith, grandmothers of the groom-elect, dispensed hospitality as did Miss Kathy Kring, Miss Paula McClellan and Miss Mary Jo McClellan.

Out of town guests included Miss Mary Margaret Haynes, Mrs. William Etter, Mrs. Carl Martin, Mrs. Jack Moses, Miss Margaret Etter, Washington; Mrs. Ralph Webb, Ozan; and Mrs. W.E. McFarland, Emmet. Sixty guests called during the appointment hours.

Crow, and Mrs. Herbert Stephens attended the district leadership workshop held April 13 at the College Hill United Methodist Church in Texarkana. Mrs. Bader was named chairman of social concerns for the district.

Mr. and Mrs. B.M. Hazzard have returned home from a 2-week trip to Tucson and Sedona, Ariz., Lovington, N.M., and several points in Texas, where they visited friends and relatives.

Attending the Arkansas Federation of Garden Clubs Civic Improvement luncheon in Little Rock Tuesday were Mrs. Ned Ray Purdie, Mrs. Lonnie Crow, Mrs. David Waddle, Mrs. J.W. McRoy, Mrs. J.M. Walker and Mrs. Charles Stone.

Shoes Fit Fashion

Men's fashions in the '70s are sleek, from the knots of their wider-than-ever ties to the tips of their soft, subtle shoes. Wing tips, long the shoe staple of the business community, are out of step with the long, lean look of fashion. Today, men's shoes offer a greater variety in style, which means men can suit their individual tastes to fashion.

IT'S BETTER TO HAVE NO MAN THAN THIS ONE

Dear Helen: Last week I made spaghetti and put mushrooms in the sauce. My husband doesn't like mushrooms and made a fuss. I offered to fry ham and eggs for him.

As I was doing so, I slammed the cupboard door. Jim came rushing in, ripped my dress off me, threw all my clothes out the window, turned over the furniture and broke everything breakable. In addition, he threw a rock at our dog. Later that night he all but attacked me.

I left next day, and am staying with my mother. Since then Jim has been drunk and on drugs. When he calls on the phone he demands that I come back.

This happens about once a month. He never apologizes, and he won't get help from an expert. Since I am seven months pregnant, the beatings lately have let up a bit, but I've had my share in the eight months we've been married. He never says he loves me, but forces his "love" on me quite brutally.

I feel like a robot that is programmed to do certain things. I can't remember when I've had peace of mind, yet when I leave him I'm miserably alone. It would kill me to see my marriage break up.—HELP!

Dear Help: It may kill you if your marriage doesn't break up—at the rate things are going. Your husband needs professional help—and you may too, if you continue to be his punching bag.—H.

Dear Helen: My father has a new family by a second marriage. His second batch are just my children's ages, and the things they're allowed to get away with make me shudder.

I recently found out my oldest half-sister smokes pot and is having an affair with her college boyfriend. The other sister is lazy in school, and has been seen walking the streets at night. My two half-brothers steal from purses and piggybanks and lie something terrible. They are failing in school.

But try to tell my Dad and step-mother their children are headed for trouble! We're called busybodies, and "jealous" because we weren't allowed that kind of freedom.

How do you get through to them that their kids are going bad?—WORRIED OLDER SISTER.

Dear Worried: Unwanted advice is heeded about as often as the Chicago Seven listened to Judge Hoffman. Concentrate on your own brood and remember that to your Dad, you're a daughter, not a Mother-Superior.—H.

Dear Helen: What can you do when your wife says she no longer loves you? There's no one else. She says she has fallen out of love. No reason. Nothing I've done. She is just tired of marriage and wants to get out. I've begged, given her whatever she has wanted, even cried, which was a mistake. What now?—FOUR YEARS SHOT

Dear FYS: Sometimes the only way to make a woman change her mind is by agreeing with her completely. Why don't you walk out first, and see what happens? Perhaps she'll discover single-ness is not all bliss.

Select Crystal With Care

One of the exciting things for a homemaker to remember when she selects her crystal (or adds to it) is that each glass has a dual purpose. Sherbet glasses are also ideal for serving appetizers of seafood cocktail, as well as ice cream, desserts and champagne. The large water goblet is most elegant for cold soups, such as vichyssoise and gazpacho. And predinner drinks—Bloody Marys or Martinis—look so sophisticated this way. Meantime, the good, old fundamental salad plate stands in for slices of pate de foie gras on a leaf of lettuce, melon and prosciutto or delectable french pastries.

Scientists Elated Over Moonquake

By BILL STOCKTON
AP Science Writer.

SPACE CENTER, Houston (AP) — The rest of the Apollo 13 mission may be a washout but scientists are elated with the moonquake created by crashing the Saturn 5 booster rocket into the lunar surface.

The impact at 8:09 p.m. EST Tuesday sent a four-hour shudder through the moon that was recorded by a seismometer erected in the lunar Ocean of Storms last November by the Apollo 12 crew.

Describing the seismic signals radioed to earth as exciting data scientists said the moonquake proves that crashing manmade objects into the lunar sphere can be a powerful tool for ultimately unraveling the mystery of the moon's origin.

"We now have a powerful and effective method for investigating the lunar interior even if we never get a big meteor impact and even if we never get a moonquake," said Dr. Maurice Ewing of Columbia University.

Ewing, Dr. Gary Latham of Columbia's Lamont Geophysical Observatory and Dr. Frank Press of the Massachusetts Institute of Technology spoke at a news conference Tuesday, several hours after the booster rocket impact.

The three seismologists were baffled by the seismic signal received last November when the Apollo 12 lunar lander was purposely crashed in a similar experiment. Such an impact on earth would have produced a brief signal, but on the moon the seismic waves lasted an hour.

The seismologists have not agreed yet on what causes the strange reverberating seismic signals from the spacecraft crashes.

Latham prefers the idea that the moon's outer shell is extremely broken up—a layer of jumbled blocks that bounces seismic waves like sound in an echo chamber.

THE DOCTOR SAYS

Hospitals in the United States now use over 6.5 million pints of blood for transfusions every year. Shortages often occur and, when they do, some much-needed operations must be postponed. The American Red Cross and the American Association of Blood Banks collect and process more than 90 per cent of the blood used. This blood is necessary in the treatment of some forms of anemia, in saving the lives of some accident victims and in replacing blood lost during operations. More than 300,000 units of blood are shipped to Vietnam annually.

Although over 100 million persons in this country could be used as blood donors, only about 3 million are currently volunteering in this laudable cause. Some stay away because of fear but any healthy person can spare a pint of blood every six weeks without any ill effects. Others may stay away through apathy. (Persons who are anemic or who have had malaria, syphilis or hepatitis cannot be used.)

Blood donations are now divided into component parts and stored, thus bringing help to more than one recipient. A person with anemia, for example, needs only the red blood cells; the hemophilic needs only a small part (the antihemophilic fraction) and the patient who has just undergone an operation often sorely needs only the blood plasma.

New processing techniques, notably the quick freeze, have greatly increased the shelf life of stored blood. If you are between 21 and 66 and in good health, making regular blood donations is a way you can help mankind at no cost and who knows—some day you might need a transfusion yourself.

Q—What is the cause of Mikulicz disease? What are the symptoms? What is the best treatment?

A—The cause of this disease is unknown. Most victims are women who are over 45 or have had their ovaries removed. They complain of dryness of the mouth and eyes and pain in the joints. Methylcellulose in eye drops and a throat spray are helpful in relieving the dryness. The arthritis is treated in the same way as rheumatoid arthritis.

Q—What is Sjogren's disease?

A—This is another name for Mikulicz disease.

Apollo Families Have Resumed Their Vigil

By MIKE COCHRAN

Associated Press Writer
SPACE CENTER, Houston (AP) — Having talked with the President and met with NASA's top official, two Apollo 13 wives resumed the vigil today over their husbands' troubled space mission.

President Nixon telephoned Marilyn Lovell and Mary Haise late Tuesday to express concern for the crew.

The National Aeronautics and Space Administration said the President assured the wives that he and the entire nation were watching with concern the progress of the disabled craft, which swung around the moon Tuesday night and began the 250,000-mile trip homeward.

NASA Administrator Thomas O. Paine visited the homes of astronauts James A. Lovell Jr. and Fred W. Haise Jr. and, in response to a question about the problems, said, "Things could be worse."

Lovell, Haise and John L. Swigert fired the descent engine of the lunar lander Tuesday night to kick Apollo 13 toward a Pacific Ocean splashdown scheduled for Friday.

Mrs. Haise and Mrs. Lovell stuck close to home, watching television newscasts and listening to communications between the crew and flight controllers.

Mrs. Haise kept her three children home from school Tuesday and, like Mrs. Lovell, was visited by a large number of friends and astronauts' wives.

Mrs. Lovell sent the youngest of her children, Jeffrey, 4, to nursery school but the other three remained at her side.

In Denver, Colo., Swigert's father, J. Leonard Swigert, told newsmen he was confident NASA "won't leave any stone unturned to bring them back."

He said his wife perhaps was "more emotional" than he and had a tendency for "continual worry" about her bachelor son. In Milwaukee, Mrs. Lovell's sister, Mrs. Robert McCann, said, "Once I heard Marilyn say she wasn't worried and that everything was going to be all right, then there was no reason for me to be anxious."

Mrs. McCann, who returned home from Cape Kennedy after watching the Apollo 13 launch, said Mrs. Lovell told her on the telephone: "Jim and the others will be home safe soon."

The sister added, "I haven't stopped praying all day."

Television and Radio

By JERRY BUCK

AP Television-Radio Writer
NEW YORK (AP) — The American public, grown complacent about flawless flights to the moon and numbed by the everyday bogus crises on the tube, was shown the genuine drama and suspense of Apollo 13 on television Tuesday night.

The three networks scrapped some regular programming for the critical burn of the lunar module engine that speeded the three astronauts on a course for a Friday splashdown in the Pacific.

NBC moved "The Huntley-Brinkley Report" up half an hour and devoted an hour early in the evening to a special report on the troubled mission. ABC and CBS had periodic reports before the burn.

The network newsmen pointed out the dangers facing the astronauts, but there was no scare-talk, no attempt to wring out any extra suspense.

The directness of the reporting, the seeming business as usual at the command center and the matter of fact voices of Apollo control and the astronauts provided its own drama.

Jules Bergman reported for ABC and on Monday night when the mishap occurred was first with a comprehensive analysis of the situation.

Walter Cronkite worked through the postmidnight hours Tuesday morning and was back with former astronaut Walter M. Schirra Jr., Tuesday night.

High School Golfers in 6th Victory

By BILL MOORE
Star Sports Writer

The Hope High golfers defeated Arkadelphia yesterday, by a count of 13 to 5 for their 6th victory against 1 loss.

Playing at the Bismarck Country Club, Hope broke a school record with 312 total strokes clipping in the old record of 315 by 3.

Ralph Rounton took medalist honors with a 73, followed by Jerry Pruden with a 79, Jack Turner and Jimmy Pruden both shot 80.

Bill Lewis led Arkadelphia with a 74.

The next match will be Friday, here, against Camden, with a possible B-team match.

Today Hope will hold their first track meet at home with some interesting running and throwing being displayed.

The 4x3 relay team will be attempting to break their own record of 45 flat. Also, Ray Wheelington and Steve Harris will be running the hurdles, while Lynn Norton will be throwing the shot and discus.

Tommy Frazier and Ray Rogers will be the 880 men with Lee Davis and Artis Martin running the 100 yard dash.

In Junior High action David Johnson runs the 100 and 220 yard dashes along with broad jumping, while Mike Waters and Danny Joyce run the 880, David Huddleston and Mike Crawford throw the shot and Wade Harris the discus.

Melvin Weston runs the 220 and Buddy Ingram will pole vault.

Chaps Clinch Second in ABA Playoffs

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

The Dallas Chaparrals got it early and the Washington Capitals missed it late as they closed out their regular American Basketball Association season, with the Chaps clinching second place in the Western Division.

Dallas got off fast and built up a 20-point lead in beating Los Angeles Tuesday night while Washington made up 23 points of a 25-point deficit before losing to Carolina 104-98.

Los Angeles can tie Washington for third place in the West by beating division-winner Denver in Wednesday night's final round of games.

Other Wednesday games are Indiana at Miami, Kentucky at New York, Carolina at Pittsburgh and Dallas at New Orleans. The playoffs begin Friday.

There was no other action Tuesday.

Glen Combs, with 25 points, Manny Leaks, with 23, and John Beasley, with 17, led Dallas. Willis Wise poured in 31 for Los Angeles.

Washington, which scored only 12 points in the first quarter and 32 in the first half, both club lows, fought back behind the scoring of Mike Barrett, who finished with 33 points.

Barrett's foul shot with 19 seconds left pulled the Caps to within 100-98, but Hank Whitney then made two free throws and Bob Verga, who totaled 38 points, scored a lay-up to clinch it for Carolina.

Giants Win Slugfest by 15-11

By HAL BOCK

Associated Press Sports Writer
The Atlanta Stadium scoreboard was flashing numbers so fast it was an electrician's dream—the ideal situation for a machine-age hitter like Ken Henderson.

First there was an eight-run inning for the Braves, then a five-run inning for San Francisco and the numbers were running wild. So too was Henderson, the Giants' outfielder, who walloped a grand slam home run in the ninth inning, breaking up the slugfest and giving the Giants a 15-11 victory.

The homer was the fourth hit of the night for Henderson, who improved his batting style this spring with the help of a pitching machine which fed him curves while the live arms were concentrating on straight balls. Elsewhere in the National League Tuesday, Cincinnati belted San Diego 6-1, St. Louis edged Montreal 6-5 in 10 innings, Los Angeles nipped Houston 3-2, Chicago topped Philadelphia 5-4 and Pittsburgh tripped New York 6-4 in 10 innings.

In the American League, Detroit walloped Cleveland 12-4, Boston downed New York 8-3, Oakland slugged Milwaukee 9-1 and Chicago stopped California 3-1. Kansas City at Minnesota and Washington at Baltimore were postponed by bad weather.

Henderson broke up the Giants-Braves game with his ninth inning grand slam against reliever Milt Pappas, Atlanta's sixth pitcher, after San Francisco had loaded the bases with three straight walks against Gary Nelbauer.

What the Braves needed Tuesday was a pitcher who could hold the Giants back. They never did find one even though they opened with an eight-run second inning. San Francisco bounced back with five in the third, three of them on Dick Dietz' homer and kept pecking away at the Braves until they tied it on Willie McCovey's two-run homer in the eighth.

Hank Aaron had his fourth homer of the young season for Atlanta.

Bobby Tolan crossed up San Diego's strategy, belting a grand slam homer to wrap up Cincinnati's victory over the Padres. The shot by the left-handed Tolan came against southpaw Danny Coomes, who had just come into the game to face him. Earlier Tony Perez and Johnny Bench had tagged consecutive homers for the Reds.

The Cardinals pushed across two runs in the last of the 10th on pinch singles by Jim Campbell and Cookie Rojas to overtake Montreal. Jose Cardenal had three hits including a homer for the Cards and Rusty Staub drove in three runs with two singles for Montreal. Marv Staehle's two-out triple in the top of the 10th had given the Expos the lead.

Jim Brewer pitched three perfect innings of relief, saving Los Angeles' victory over Houston. Wes Parker singled one Dodger run across in the first and scored another on Billy Grabarkiewicz' two-out single in the sixth. Willie Crawford homered for LA.

Ernie Banks cracked a double and two singles, helping the Cubs whip Philadelphia. Doubles by Banks and Johnny Callison were the key hits in a three-run first that put Chicago in front to stay. Ken Holtzman went the distance for the victors, surviving a four-run Philie flurry in the ninth.

Rookie Bob Robertson cracked a homer in the ninth, tying the game and then the Pirates pushed across two runs in the 10th on clutch singles by Richie Hebner and Matty Alou to beat the Mets. Reliever Tug McGraw's throwing error on an attempted sacrifice set the stage for Pittsburgh's winning rally.

Sinden Got Results With His Talk

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Harry Sinden didn't reveal what he told the Boston Bruins between periods of their Stanley Cup National Hockey League playoff game.

Whatever it was, it got results. The Bruins came from behind on two third-period goals by Phil Esposito and beat the New York Rangers 3-2 Tuesday night on Boston ice.

"I said a few things to them between the periods," said Sinden, the Bruins' coach. "More than anything I could say, I think they just realized the importance of the situation."

Casper Moves Into 5th Place Moneywise

NEW YORK (AP) — Billy

Casper moved into fifth place among the top ten money-winners by winning the Masters on Monday, the weekly tabulation by the Professional Golfers' Association showed Tuesday.

Casper now has won $53,966 so far compared to $94,272 for first place Lee Trevino. However, Casper still is not in the top ten of the new point system used by the PGA Tournament Players Division.

This week's top ten point leaders are Trevino 555.3 points; Bob Lunn 587.9; Dick Lotz 530.5; Tommy Aaron 511.6; Dave Stockton 450.8; Grier Jones 443.5; Frank Beard 435.0; Miller Barber 432.5; Ron Cerrudo 431.0; Tony Jacklin 426.0.

The top ten money-winners, with number of tournaments completed, victories and times finished in the top five: Trevino, 12-2-3, $84,272; Lotz, 12-1-4, $7,021; Lunn, 13-1-4, $58,826; Gary Player, 5-1-2, $57,371; Casper, 2-2-2, $53,966; Bruce Devlin, 8-1-3, $48,765; Jacklin, 11-0-3, $41,726; Bert Yancey, 10-1-2, $41,378; Barber, 14-0-2, $40,014; Bob Stanton, 11-0-2, $37,541.

The victory gave the Bruins a 3-2 lead in the best-of-7 quarter-final series.

Angels Find Other Fields Are Greener

By DICK COUCH

Associated Press Sports Writer
Home is still the best place to be for Detroit's Al Kaline and Boston's Reggie Smith, but the other man's grass has been greener this spring for the California Angels.

Kaline marked his 18th home opener in Detroit Monday with a two-run double that helped the Tigers maul Cleveland 12-4 and Smith crashed a homer, triple and double as the Red Sox whipped the New York Yankees 8-3 in their first start at Boston. But the Angels, who had reeled off five consecutive road victories to set the early pace in the American League, bowed to the Chicago White Sox 3-1 in their initial home game as Joe Horlen tossed his 100th career victory.

In the only other AL game, Oakland bombed Milwaukee 9-1 behind left-handers Al Downing and Paul Lindblad. Kansas City and Minnesota were snowed out at Minneapolis-St. Paul and Washington's game at Baltimore also was postponed because of wet grounds.

San Francisco outslugged Atlanta 15-11, Cincinnati trimmed San Diego 6-1, Pittsburgh topped the New York Mets 6-4 in 10 innings, St. Louis shaded Montreal 6-5 in 10, the Chicago Cubs nipped Philadelphia 5-4 and Los Angeles edged Houston 3-2 in National League play.

"You always enjoy playing in front of a home crowd on Opening Day," said Kaline, whose double keyed a four-run third inning salvo at Detroit, where the Tigers pounded out 15 hits before an appreciative throng of 46,891. "I think there's a little extra incentive when you know everyone is behind you."

Norm Cash and Jim Northrup had three hits apiece for the Tigers, including a two-run homer by Cash, and left-hander Mickey Lolich weathered 12 Cleveland hits on the way to his second victory in three decisions.

At Boston, 34,010 jammed Fenway Park to see the Red Sox wreck the Yanks with a 12-hit barrage. Smith, George Scott and Tony Conigliaro pounded bases-empty homers over the short left field wall. Smith doubled home two more runs and tripled and scored another while boosting his early batting average to .345.

Horlen, a nine-year AL veteran, reached the century mark in victories with late inning relief help from Wilbur Wood before 18,229 at Anaheim.

The White Sox, who had won just one of six games at home, turned an error by second baseman Sandy Alomar into three first inning runs and made them stand up.

Milwaukee miscues handed the A's four unearned runs and Rick Monday wrapped up Downing's first Oakland victory with a three-run homer in the eighth.

Downing, acquired from the Yankees during the winter, limped the Brewers to a tainted run and eight scattered hits in the 6-1-3 innings he worked. Lindblad allowed one more hit in his mop-up job.

Super Bowl in Tennis Is Suggested

NEW YORK (AP) — If the contract pros can't play in the Davis Cup, then let them meet the Cup winners in a Super Bowl of tennis.

This was the alternative proposed Tuesday by President Alastair Martin of the U.S. Lawn Tennis Association should open Davis Cup play be turned down by the International Lawn Tennis Federation.

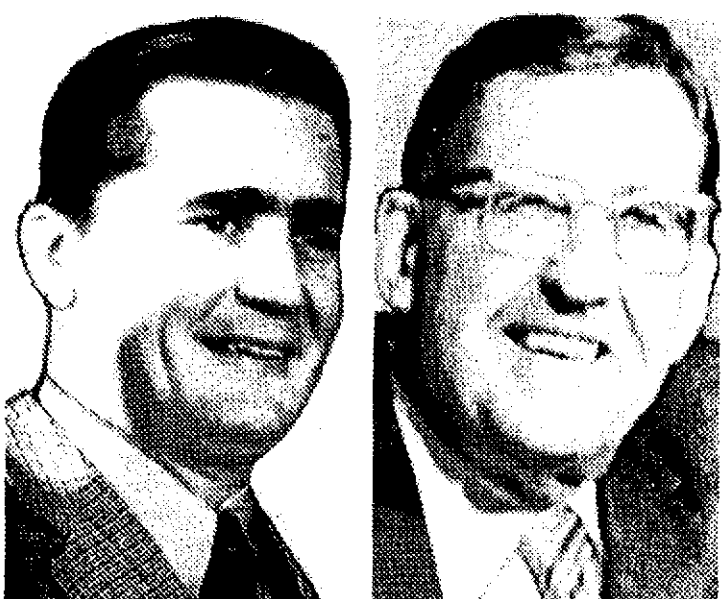

Martin's proposal was made as a side thought to a statement he issued on major problems facing tennis. It was not part of the statement.

The problems, Martin said, include "unrealistic categories of players, exclusion of leading players, from Davis Cup competition, a breakdown of relations with professional groups, unrealistic control of American tennis by an international body and lack of player discipline."

Martin recommended that, beginning in 1971, the USLTA recognize only two categories of players—amateur and professional. Currently there are amateurs, pros and registered players. The registered players are pros who accept the control of the USLTA.

The Davis Cup nations will be asked, Martin said, to form a committee to recommend change in the 1971 competition such as separate amateur and professional events or a challenge tournament open to all.

WHY ARE THESE MEN SMILING?

MAYBE IT'S BECAUSE nearly four million dollars has passed among them. The givers, on top, are Tom Cousins, treasurer for the Atlanta Hawks, and Bill Ringsby, right, owner of the Denver Rockets. The takers, on bottom, are Pete Maravich, left, and Spencer Haywood, right. Maravich and Haywood took $1.9 million each for signing contracts with the Hawks and Rockets, respectively, the largest sums ever paid to American professional athletes.

West Leads Lakers to 2nd Victory

By ED SHEARER

Associated Press Sports Writer
ATLANTA (AP) — Jerry West, the National Basketball Association's leading scorer, plays defense, too.

The Los Angeles star pitched in 23 points Tuesday night as the Lakers defeated Atlanta 105-94 to take a 2-0 lead in the Western Division playoff finals.

West's key contribution came on defense where he continued to shackle Atlanta's Lou Hudson, holding him to 12 points, 13 below his regular season average.

Hudson managed to hit only 5 of 20 shots from the floor, and went only 6 for 16 in his 16-point effort in the first game of the best-of-7 series here Sunday. "We did not expect to win two games here," West said. "It's nice to be in this situation."

Los Angeles could sweep the series with victories on its home floor Friday and Sunday nights and then face the New York-Milwaukee survivor for the NBA championship.

New York also leads the Eastern Division playoffs, which resume at Milwaukee Friday night, by a 2-0 margin.

If the capacity crowd of 7,100 expected to see blood, they were disappointed.

Atlanta Coach Richie Guerin, irked at the officiating in Sunday's game, called a news conference Monday and accused officials of protecting West and Elgin Baylor.

"If we get called for little bitty fouls, then West and Baylor won't be around at the end," Guerin had said. "A lot of blood will be spilt on the floor tomorrow night."

Walter Kennedy, the league commissioner, slapped a $1,000 fine on Guerin for remarks "detrimental to basketball."

However, the game wasn't any rougher than the average NBA game, but an aroused crowd peppered paper cups and occasionally ice onto the floor when they disagreed with an official's calls.

Wilt Chamberlain, continuing to play back into peak condition, pulled down 24 rebounds and matched teammate Dick Garret's game high 24 points.

"We can't beat them without shooting well," Guerin said. The Hawks hit only 39 of 100 field goal attempts while the Lakers were hitting 45.8 per cent.

The ILTF also will be asked to permit each nation to determine its own rules and regulations, permitting the game in this country to develop without approval of the ILTF for experimental changes, Martin said.

The ILTF meets at Dubrovnik, Yugoslavia July 8.

Sensational Describes Casper's Play

By HUBERT MIZELL

Associated Press Sports Writer
AUGUSTA, Ga. (AP) — Bill Casper uncoiled on the sofa, wearing the Masters championship coat of green. His luck had been sensational in an 18-hole playoff against San Diego neighbor Gene Littler despite it being April 13 and his 13th trip to Augusta.

An obviously London voice spoke from the rear of the room. "What are your plans now, Billy?" Casper grinned.

"Judging from the tone of that accent, I'd better say I am looking forward to playing in the British Open."

Casper will give it a go at St. Andrews, Scotland, in the British bundle of golfing prestige. He'll also try in the PGA Championship at Tulsa and the U.S. Open at Minneapolis.

If the soft-spoken Californian can add the other three to his success in the Masters, he will become the first man to score a pro golf Grand Slam. Nobody really thinks he can do it, not even Casper.

"Mighty, mighty stim," is the way Casper assesses his chance. "Not with the three dozen or so great players of today. Winning one is hard enough. But three? That's improbable. Make that highly improbable."

Ben Hogan came closest to a pro slam in 1953 when he bagged the Masters, U.S. Open and British Open. The Texas Hawk never liked match play, so he skipped the PGA as a matter of principle. Since then, the PGA has converted to medal play.

Bobby Jones is noted as the Grand Slam man, but he did it along the amateur route. Hogan always claimed his 1953 accomplishment was much more difficult since he was facing the

Merger Is Talked by Pro Cagers

By ED SCHUYLER JR.

Associated Press Sports Writer
NEW YORK (AP) — The American Basketball Association has started a pattern play toward merger—general agreement among its club owners—and now its up to the National Basketball Association to help complete the goal.

But a member of the NBA team—owner Franklin Miell of the San Francisco Warriors—is threatening to block the shot at marrying the two pro leagues.

And Miell also has hollered technical foul at Ned Irish, president of the NBA New York Knicks, charging Irish with pushing for merger in the interests of Madison Square Garden, which owns the Knicks.

These were the developments Tuesday on the bumpy road toward merger.

ABA Commissioner Jack Dolph announced after an owners' meeting in New York that they had agreed in seven general areas for merger. The two leagues' merger committees already had agreed on the points, he said, and now if the NBA owners agree, more technical negotiations can begin.

The NBA owners might meet in New York next week.

Four of the seven points agreed on were:

—All 11 of the ABA teams will be included in any merger.

—All players who are involved in multiple signings will remain in their current legal status and will be resolved between the two teams involved.

—An indemnity of approximately $11 million will be paid by the ABA.

—The Washington-Baltimore situation cannot be resolved unilaterally, and a decision on this matter will depend on the NBA meeting. However, Earl Foreman has indicated to the ABA that he is not unwilling to leave Washington under certain circumstances, and the ABA has reached an agreement on a recommendation to be given the NBA on this matter.

Miell told the San Francisco Examiner:

"I've got three votes to block this merger and I hope to have a fourth, which would guarantee defeat."

Twelve of the 45-member NBA Board of Governors must vote for the merger to approve it.

Miell said he wants only six ABA teams to join the NBA—Indiana, Kentucky, Carolina, Denver and two more to be picked by the NBA.

He also said he not only wants Rick Barry returned to the Warriors from Washington but wants all other players who jumped, or are expected to jump, to the ABA returned to their NBA clubs.

Miell charged Irish with pushing expansion because Madison Square Garden also has a lease on a Long Island arena where the ABA Nets play.

"Irish doesn't care what trash he brings into the NBA so long as the Nets survive and rent his building on Long Island," said Miell. "It makes me laugh because Irish has always been against expansion."

Irish countered by saying, "I can't say much for his statement since it's inaccurate. No, I, we have no lease nor contemplate seeking a lease on any building on Long Island. No, 2, if he's trying to read my mind, he's not doing a very good job."

Dolph did not say what recommendation would be made to the NBA concerning the Washington franchise which has been considered a major stumbling block toward merger. The NBA Baltimore franchise contends Washington infringes on its territorial rights.

However, Foreman was quoted by the Washington Star Tuesday as saying his club would be shifted to Virginia as a regional franchise and that he would not have to pay any indemnity.

The other points of agreement announced by Dolph were:

—Commencing next season there will be mixed exhibition games as well as a championship series and an All-Star game between the two leagues.

—Commencing next season there will be separate leagues with a limited mixed regular-season schedule. This structure will continue for three seasons after which there will be a total realignment of all existing teams.

—Each league will retain separate negotiating rights for national television for the period of the next three years.

Strong Field at New Orleans Tournament

By BOB GREEN

Associated Press Golf Writer
NEW ORLEANS, La. (AP) — Newly crowned Master champion Billy Casper ranked as a mild favorite today in a surprisingly strong field assembled for the $125,000 Greater New Orleans Open Golf tournament.

Casper declined to take a day off after his 18-hole playoff victory over Gene Littler at Augusta, Ga., Monday and played a practice round over the 7,070 yard, par 72 Lakewood Country Club course Tuesday.

"I've got it going now," Casper said. "I can't afford to let it get away at this stage." It was unlikely that he was speaking from a financial standpoint, however. The 38-year-old Casper, one of two double winners on the pro tour this year, has career earnings of over $1 million, including $54,000 this year.

But he has stern opposition for the $25,000 first prize here, one of the strongest fields the tournament has had in years. Many of the top names were expected to skip the New Orleans tournament since it is sandwiched between the Masters and next week's prestigious Tournament of Champions at Rancho La Costa, Calif.

But the field for the 72 hole test that begins Thursday includes such standouts as South African Gary Player, swash-buckling Lee Trevino, U.S. Open champion Orville Moody, Frank Beard, Dave Hill and Dave Stockton, along with defending champion Larry Hinson.

All must rank high among the list of contenders, with Player and Trevino at the top. Player appears to be at the top of his game. He has won over $57,000 in only five weeks on the American tour, took the title in the Greater Greensboro Open and was third, just one shot back, in the Masters.

Trevino, who didn't arrive until late Tuesday, is back from a week off when — as he said he would — he decided to skip the Masters.

The flamboyant character is the year's leading money winner with $84,000 and, along with Casper, is a double winner. He scored in both the Tucson and National Airlines opens.

Hill, Beard, Stockton and Hinson all have played well in recent weeks, but none have won this year. Hill and Stockton tied for fourth in the Masters. "I was hitting the ball super," Hill said of his play at Augusta. He got within two strokes of the lead at one point on the final round.

Among the missing are Littler, Arnold Palmer and Jack Nicklaus. Palmer and Nicklaus are taking some time off before the Tournament of Champions and Littler simply returned to his home in La Jolla, Calif.

JUDICIAL

Blackmun ruled against a Negro who charged a housing developer refused to sell him a home in a new subdivision in St. Louis County, but he indicated a sympathy for the plaintiff's contention.

"It is not for our court, as an inferior one, to give full expression to any personal inclinations any of us might have and to take the lead in expanding constitutional precepts when we are faced with a limiting Supreme Court decision," Blackmun wrote.

"It would not be too surprising if the Supreme Court one day were to hold that a court errs when it dismisses a complaint of this kind," he added.

Blackmun has written opinions directing the West Memphis, Ark., school district to desegregate its faculty and seek racial balance in the student body, and ordering another Arkansas school system to make every effort to rehire Negro teachers dismissed when their schools were closed.

In a case last month, Blackmun wrote an opinion directing the El Dorado, Ark., school district to achieve further integration. But he said:

"We do not rule that busing is a constitutional imperative. Busing is only one possible tool in the implementation of unitary schools. Busing may or may not be a useful factor in the required and forthcoming solution of the elementary school problem which the district faces."

Although he has upheld the death sentence in celebrated cases, Blackmun wrote a 1965 decision ordering a new hearing for an Arkansas Negro sentenced to death for raping a white woman. He held that a confession introduced as evidence was involuntary, the type of ruling that appears to conflict with Nixon's views.

Freshman Is Moved to First Team

FAYETTEVILLE, Ark. (AP)

— Jim Hodge, a freshman from Shreveport, La., was moved up to first team flanker Tuesday when it was revealed that Chuck Dicus would not participate in any contact work during the remainder of Arkansas' spring practice.

Dicus, who will be a senior this fall, will be held out of contact because of a shoulder injury he received in the 1969 Baylor game. A spokesman said Dicus would have surgery on the shoulder after spring practice ends May 2.

Dicus, who is from Garland, Tex., caught 42 passes for 688 yards last season.

Hodge was a teammate of quarterback Joe Ferguson at Shreveport Woodlawn and was one of the leading receivers on the 1969 freshman team.

It was also announced that Dennis Saddler, a 203-pounder from Tulsa, Okla., had been moved from flanker to defensive halfback.

Negro Might Be Candidate for Governor

FORT SMITH, Ark. (AP)

— The Rev. R. J. Hampton, president of Shorter College in North Little Rock, said here Tuesday night that he might seek the Republican gubernatorial nomination and then lashed out at Gov. Winthrop Rockefeller.

Hampton, a Negro, labeled himself a "serious potential candidate" in a speech at Westark Junior College.

Hampton said a Negro should run for governor this year because only a Negro is "sufficiently equipped by nature and position to call attention to the Rockefeller farce."

"Winthrop Rockefeller is totally insensitive to the contributions of black men to the Republican party," Hampton said.

"He is lamentably unaware of the indispensability of the black man to that party's survival," Hampton said. Negroes envisioned greater political participation, respect and recognition through Rockefeller's election, "but all of this after three years has shown itself to be but from an empty dream."

Hampton said Rockefeller is endangering the two-party system by his "endeavors to keep the Republican party a one-man show, a personal vehicle for his own political ambitions."

"Whatever his good intentions, and I think they are suspect, Gov. Rockefeller has just not been on the job... not in Arkansas and not for Arkansas," Hampton said.

Computer Big Help in Crime Fight

LITTLE ROCK (AP)

— During the first 101 days of 1970, 20 fugitives and 66 missing articles were located through the National Crime Information Center computer.

Li, Col. William Miller, assistant director of the Arkansas State Police, said the "hits" had resulted from 3,821 inquiries by law enforcement agencies. Arkansas was linked to the NCIC in January 1969.

The first international "hit" was recorded last Sunday when the Bentonville Police Department asked the computer for Clarence Blain Robinson was the subject of any arrest warrants.

The computer said Robinson, 27, of Ontario, Canada, was wanted in Canada for fraud. He had been arrested at Mountainburg in connection with the theft of television sets from a Bentonville motel.

After 10 Years Ken Boyer Is Back in Minors

By HARRY KING

Associated Press Writer

LITTLE ROCK (AP) — After 15 years in the major leagues, Ken Boyer is in the minors — as manager of the Arkansas Travelers.

"To an extent, it is a very definite advantage to have played in the major leagues," said Boyer, whose team opens its Texas League season at Memphis Friday night. "You have the respect of the kids when you start out."

Boyer says managing is similar to playing.

"You manage ahead of the game... you're an injury or two ahead all the time and your decision is already made before the thing happens," he said. "Just like when you're a player... you anticipate what you're going to do with the ball and then when you get it, you do it."

Boyer, who has played under several different managers, says he hasn't intentionally copied the style of anyone.

"I think I'd be very foolish if I didn't pick up something from the different managers," he said. "But, I don't think in a game situation you can sit there and say, 'What would he do' or 'What would he do.' It's kind of an impulsive thing."

"I don't suppose I'll add too much new to the profession," he said. "Everybody has a few things they have ideas about. I always took the game kind of seriously. I guess you hope the 25 guys you get will look at it the same way."

Boyer said he was pleased with the Traveler roster.

"There's some fine arms on the pitching staff, some excellent base runners and a couple of boys who can hit the ball," he said. "I like the whole balance of the ball club."

Boyer refused to predict the major leagues for any of the players and, in the same breath, would not say there was a player on the roster who couldn't make the big time.

"I don't think you can say of them can't or any of them won't," Boyer said. "Once you say that about a kid, he's bound to make it. We don't have that many ball clubs right now and I think the scouts, managers, and the people in the Cardinal organization consider everybody a big league prospect."

"We can only look at the raw ability and the basic fundamentals," he said, "and the basics of most of the kids are good. The raw things you look for — good arms, strong legs, bats — are there."

The Traveler lineup is loaded with left-handers and the right field wall at Ray Winder Field is convenient, but Boyer says he does not expect this to be a power ball club.

"We'll run all we can," he said. "I like the type of game and I know the fans do."

He said his tentative starting lineup would include Charlie Stewart in centerfield, Lucky Thompson at second base, Jose Cruz in right, Wayne Dees at first, Bill Stein in left, brother Lenny Boyer at third and Eddie Crosby at shortstop. The catcher will be either Skip Jutze or Tony Auferio and the pitcher will probably be right-

Kramer Backed by Democrats

SCHENECTADY, N.Y. (AP)

— Barry Kramer, former pro basketball player in the NBA and ABA, received the Democratic Party's endorsement Tuesday to run for the New York State Assembly.

Kramer, a lawyer who was an All-American at NYU in 1963, will run in the 106th Assembly District.

Rangers, Bruins Set Record

BOSTON (AP) — The New York Rangers and the Boston Bruins have set a Stanley Cup playoff record for most penalty minutes assessed in a series.

In the five games of their National Hockey League quarter-final playoff series, the teams have combined for 357 minutes in penalties, breaking the mark of 340 set by Philadelphia and St. Louis in a seven-game series in 1968.

Soviet-U.S. to Resume Arms Talks

Soviet-American arms talks, whose success or lack of it will be of enormous importance to mankind, reopen Thursday in Vienna. There are few good omens, but one may be Moscow's complaints about drunkenness and irresponsibility among Soviet workers.

This may sound far-fetched, but Soviet economic problems are directly connected with whatever Kremlin interest there is in scaling down the hugely expensive arms race. SALT, the strategic arms limitation talks, offers probably the only way out.

Never have the Soviet Union and the United States possessed such military might as they have today. Never have the superpowers had such complex foreign policy problems. Never have the two had more compelling reasons for seeking an arms agreement.

The arguments on the American side in favor of a halt to the race have been widely publicized. What about the Soviet side?

When Leonid I. Brezhnev, the Communist party chief, publicly bawled out Soviet workers for drunkenness and irresponsibility and calls for "harsh administrative measures," he exposes one of the big reasons why the Kremlin might want an arms race setback.

Labor productivity in the Soviet Union is too low. Income, however small by Western standards, outruns production, and there are not enough consumer goods to go around. The demands for improving the Soviet domestic economy never have been more insistent than now. The Soviet consumer lobby never has been stronger or more demanding. The leaders never had had more incentive for cutting down huge investment in an open-ended arms race.

Brezhnev's speech and other recent official Moscow statements reflect an urgent need to invest in the consumer economy a much bigger share of the wealth that is being gobbled up by the arms contest. The need must be pressing indeed to move Brezhnev to a shower of heresies: his calls for more autonomy in business enterprises, more economic incentives, more initiative from below, all smacking of lessened centralized bureaucratic control.

The Kremlin apparently also would like to arrange more beneficial contact with the United States to help the Soviet Union out of her economic problems. Discussing SALT recently, a Soviet publication said: "Considerable possibilities are being revealed in the field of mutually advantageous trade, economic ties and scientific and technical cooperation between the United States and the U.S.S.R."

All this can reflect itself in the Vienna talks. If logic were in command, the negotiations would have a good chance. There is little record thus far, however, of logic being the rule in Soviet-American negotiations. The superpowers solemnly agree on the dangers of the race and the wisdom of a halt. But the talks are reopening in an atmosphere of mutual suspicion.

In a second speech this week, Brezhnev said that "if American opinion succeeds in overcoming resistance by the arms manufacturers and the military," prospects for the talks would be favorable.

If you start using the grand-slam force with your regular partners you should use it to ask partner to bid seven with two of the three top honors in the agreed suit. Later on you can extend it to derive more information. That is, you can derive more information if the agreed suit is anything but clubs.

The spade suit gives you the greatest possible leeway since your partner can respond with six in any other suit. Thus if spades happens to be the agreed suit your partner will bid seven spades with all three of the top honors, six spades with just ace and king, six hearts with either ace-queen or king-queen, six diamonds with ace or king and six clubs without either ace or king.

With hearts the agreed suit seven hearts again shows all three, six hearts the ace and king, six diamonds the ace and queen or king and queen and six clubs anything less.

When diamonds is the agreed suit, the response is seven with ace and king, six diamonds with ace-queen or king-queen and six clubs with less, while if clubs is the agreed suit, you just stick with the simple response of seven with two of the top three and six with less.

All this is most complicated and only a few of you readers will be interested. Thus, we are writing this article just for those few.

Playing the simple grand-slam force North cannot afford to bid five no-trump since he only wants to be in seven if his partner holds both ace and king. Playing the advanced form he does bid five no-trump. South responds six spades to show the ace and king and since North has assumed that South holds an eight-card suit he goes right to the grand slam.

ASU Complaints to Be Aired by Board

JONESBORO, Ark. (AP) — Joe Brooks of Jonesboro, chairman of the Arkansas State University Board of Trustees, said Tuesday that a special meeting of the board has been tentatively set for April 22 to hear student and faculty complaints.

He said he called the meeting at the request of Gov. Winthrop Rockefeller.

Brooks said the board would hear "from 10 to 15 students and from 10 to 15 faculty members."

He also said the meeting would be closed to the press and to administrators. "We're just looking for information and we want them to feel free to talk," Brooks said.

Rockefeller met Saturday with eight ASU students who asked him to investigate alleged suppression of academic freedom by the administration of ASU president Dr. Carl R. Reng.

The board's March 23 decision not to renew the contracts of Dr. Bill L. Stroud and Dr. Ronald Hayworth has prompted criticism from students and faculty members.

Reng announced Monday that he would ask the board to reconsider the release of Hayworth. Reng's statement did not mention Stroud.

"What puzzles me is that if there is new evidence in Hayworth's case, isn't there the possibility there is new evidence available in Dr. Stroud's case," Brooks said. "Whatever our decision is in these cases, the problems of academic freedom and campus tranquility still exist, and it brings up the question of administrative practices."

Oil Spill Plan Praised by U.S. Officials

LITTLE ROCK (AP) — Federal officials Tuesday praised a plan developed by the Arkansas Petroleum Council under which oil spills that occur on Arkansas waterways would be cleaned up by the 17 oil companies represented by the council.

Officials said the plan probably will be put into effect later this year and that it would be designed to fit in with federal water quality legislation approved last week.

The plan and oil spill statutes were discussed at a conference here between federal, state and local officials and council representatives.

"We're encouraged," said Jerry Thornhill of the Dallas, Tex., office of the Federal Water Quality Administration. "This is a good start, a real good job of laying the groundwork to move forward."

"We like the plan very much," said Cindi James Atkinson of the Coast Guard stationed at Memphis.

"We have been trying to get other areas involved in this sort of thing, and have been trying to gently twist the oil industry's arm," said Atkinson, who is head of Coast Guard operations covering Arkansas. "But in Arkansas, this has been started by the industry, without any push from us."

"We're very impressed with the action they've taken thus far," Atkinson said. "This is the first experience I've had in this area that's been this good."

Thornhill said the federal legislation requires that oil com-

At Tuesday's meeting of Hope Kiwanis Club President Thomas Norvell and Dan Stuart reported on the recent 24th Annual Convention of the Missouri-Arkansas District of Key Club International. Fifteen Hope High School Key Clubbers with sponsors E.P. Young, Jr., Bill Butler, and George Frazier attended the meeting in Kansas City, Mo.

The theme of the Convention was "Understanding... Pathway to Human Dignity."

Thomas Norvell spoke on the highlights of the trip and the business session, while Dan Stuart told of the speakers and entertainers. Among these were Former Miss America Marilyn Van Derbur, research physicist Gary M. Arnett, and the convention favorite, Missouri's Junior Miss Anita Colombo.

In this largest District Convention ever held there were 963 Key Clubbers and 100 adult sponsors present.

Gary Smith, of North Little Rock, Arkansas, was elected President for the coming year and will preside at the 1971 convention in Hot Springs, Arkansas.

The program was arranged by Kiwanian Bill Butler. Guests for the meeting were Bill Freeman, Ben Owens, and Vincent Foster.

Electrical Short Blamed for Trouble

SPACE CENTER, Houston (AP) — Some spacecraft engineers believe an electrical short may have caused an explosion which disabled the Apollo 13 spacecraft.

A short circuit in either a fan or a heater in one of the spacecraft's two oxygen tanks could have caused a rise in pressure which exploded the tank, a source at the Manned Spacecraft Center said Tuesday.

The two oxygen tanks in the spacecraft are in the service module. Each tank has a sort of electric blanket heater on the outside and a fan on the inside.

The heaters force an increase in oxygen pressure by causing the liquid oxygen in the tanks to turn into gas. The fans circulate the oxygen and make the heating uniform.

The source said a short in a heater could have caused a rapid rise in pressure as more oxygen was turned into gas than the oxygen system could use.

panies clean up oil spills, but that the council has established an agreement among its members to assist each other and to plot the logistics involved in clean-up operations.

"Our emphasis will be on prevention," said Jack Shelton, executive director of the council. "But we want to be ready to handle spills if they occur and the plan is aimed at doing both."

Under the plan, Coast Guard and fire officials would be notified in the event of an oil spill. Shelton said the Coast Guard has over-all supervision on the Arkansas River and fire departments would be the first participants in an oil spill operation where a fire hazard existed.

Shelton said council members plan to buy equipment for dealing with spills and that the equipment will be maintained at strategic locations along the stream.

Companies represented by the council are Sinclair, Skelly, Pure, Lion, Murphy, Shell, Conoco, Sun (Sunray-DX), Humble, Gulf, American, Mobil, Texaco, Cigo, Berry, Atlantic Richfield and Phillips.

Challenge to Hold Back Alaskan Oil

By JACK LEFFLER
AP Business Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — A court challenge by conservationists is likely to hold back for perhaps a year the flow of oil from the rich, newly discovered Alaskan North Slope fields, and cost oil companies drilling there many millions of dollars.

A U.S. District Court judge in Washington Monday granted an injunction requested by three conservation groups prohibiting Secretary of Interior Walter J. Hickel from issuing a right-of-way permit for a road leading from the oil fields to southern Alaska.

This had the effect of preventing the start of construction of a $1-billion paralleling 48-inch pipeline from Prudhoe Bay to the port of Valdez.

Oil companies a year ago paid the State of Alaska $900 million for North Slope leases in the greatest bidding competition in industry history.

The 800-mile pipeline, under and above the frozen Alaskan surface, is to be built by Trans-Alaskan Pipeline System—

TAPS—owned by subsidiaries of Atlantic Richfield Co., B&P North America Ltd. and Humble Oil & Refining Co.

"We can't go ahead with our hoped for start on the pipeline this spring," a TAPS spokesman said in Anchorage, Alaska, Tuesday.

The federal government has yet to issue a permit for the pipeline, but an industry source said, "A pipeline permit without a road permit is worthless."

Another source said he expected that the oil companies already engaged in drilling would go ahead even though they would not be able to move the oil out as expected. This, he said, would add millions of dollars to their costs.

The injunction against the pipeline road was obtained by three organizations—the Wilderness Society, Friends of the Earth and Environmental Defense Fund, Inc.—which contend that the pipeline would pollute the environment.

The injunction is temporary pending a trial of the suit.

Slavs Never Had It So Good Before

Yugoslavia never had it so good economically. For that reason as much as any other, it is fearful. The Russians are annoyed.

From the look of things, Moscow and its bloc allies are neck-deep in intrigue aimed at toppling Yugoslavia's system of socialism, Moscow says it isn't socialism at all. For the Kremlin there is only one socialism—Soviet.

Two brands of Yugoslav Communists are working one against the other—the go-go boys of the new era and the die-hard conservatives, many of whom now seem to yearn for the uncomplicated old days of Stalin's domination. The conservatives may be getting ready for a power struggle with Soviet help, perhaps after Tito dies. Should they succeed, the drastic change in the strategic picture will shake Europe.

Tito turns 78 next month. His strong personality accomplished almost a miracle in Yugoslavia. The country is a federation of six "Socialist republics" with a variety of creeds and nationalities. It has a Balkan history of feuds, fragmentation, foreign domination and wars. Tito has kept it together for a quarter century and at the same time stayed out of the embrace of the Russian bear.

In the normal course of events, if Tito should die, the presidency would be assumed under the constitution by Col. Gen. Koca Popovic, 62, the former foreign minister who is now vice president. He would hold it until elections, and would then be in a strong position to stay. He is a tough, long-time confidant of Tito who doesn't care for the Russians.

But there could be a good deal of trouble, perhaps even before Tito passes from the scene.

The Yugoslav League of Communists, as the ruling party calls itself, obviously is worried by pressure from external sources at a time when internal political difficulties could generate the sort of confusion in which the Russians like to operate.

Leading party newspapers speak frequently these days of the "Cominformists," who include those never reconciled to the economic reforms and the political system which encourage workers' self-management and incentives.

The name refers to the Cominform—the now defunct Communist Information Bureau organized by Moscow under Stalin in 1947 to insure bloc obedience. The Cominform pronounced Tito a heretic for talking back to Stalin and read him out of the family. The term "Cominformist" today does not necessarily refer to veterans of 1948 as such, but to a state of mind.

Outside Yugoslavia the Cominformists are the present Moscow rulers and some men in other bloc parties. Inside Yugoslavia they include many in the party, government and army bureaucracies who fear the economic reforms which permitted Yugoslavs to enjoy markedly better living standards than their Communist-dominated neighbors. The Yugoslav press says often that Moscow is afraid of the influence of the Yugoslav system on other countries.

The party newspaper Politika, commenting early this year, claimed the Cominformists within were encouraged by criticisms of the regime "from the East."

The worries are compounded by an internal political situation generated by pressure from below for less centralization of authority. Croatia's Communists, for example, demand more autonomy.

'Liberals' Get What They Want: Northern Nominee

The lack of balance on the United States Supreme Court having helped produce many of the political ailments and uncertainties from which America suffers today, Richard Nixon pledged in the presidential campaign of 1968 to restore the court's proper balance. The people heard his proposition, endorsed it, and elected Nixon. The high court being unbalanced both as to judicial philosophy and national geography Nixon nominated consecutively two Southern conservative judges — Haynsworth and Carswell. Both were respected federal jurists, both matched the promise Nixon gave in the 1968 campaign — yet the so-called liberals of both parties ganged up and denied them confirmation in the Senate.

Today you read the inevitable result: Nixon has finally been compelled to nominate a conservative judge from the North, Harry Andrew Blackmun of the Eighth Circuit Court of Appeals. Judge Blackmun has the virtue of being a Minnesota man.

Which is to say that he escapes the discredit of being a Southerner.

And no matter what the Philadelphia lawyers in the Senate have to say about it that's the way the nation will spell it. Sen. Birch Bayh of Indiana, the Arkansas Gazette, and Sen. J. William Fulbright fancy themselves as masters of the voice of dissent — but I dare say that what constitutes a majority in the Senate will wind up as a minority report when the nation is heard from.

Particularly in our South. Your editor was one of the original sponsors of Bill Fulbright in 1942. But the rehabilitation of America's comic opera Supreme Court is a clutch case. Fulbright voted against Southerner Carswell's nomination — and because of that I regretfully report your editor finds himself less enchanted with our junior senator day by day.

Benton May Shorten School Term

BENTON, Ark. (AP) — Supt. Howard Perrin said Tuesday the Benton School Board may be forced to shorten the 1970-71 school term by one week because of a financial crisis.

Perrin said that because of the defeat last month of a 10-mill tax increase for operating funds a $42,841 deficit for the next school term is expected. He said the tax increase would have provided an additional $130,000 a year under current property assessments.

Perrin said a reduction in teacher salaries or the size of the faculty was not anticipated. He said shortening the school term one week would result in a saving of about $40,000.

He said the reason "we don't have a lot of money for our schools" is because the big industries of the county are in another school district.

Showers May Follow a Cold Front

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
Showers and thundershowers were expected to enter Arkansas today as a cold front moved across the state.

The thundershowers were expected to begin in Western Arkansas late this afternoon and spread across the state by tonight, the Weather Bureau said. Temperatures were also expected to fall as the front moved through, the bureau said.

Highs Tuesday ranged from 63 at Harrison to 77 at Texarkana.

Wednesday Is Income Tax Deadline

By JOHN M. PEARCE
Associated Press Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — For the millions of taxpayers who vowed "I'll do it tomorrow," tomorrow is here. This is the final, frantic day for filing most tax returns.

The last of 77 million 1969 tax forms, with some exceptions, must be postmarked by midnight or the Internal Revenue Service can begin assessing penalties against anyone who delays.

Although almost two million more returns had been filed by last Friday than the same time a year ago, 25 million remained out as of that last count, the IRS reported Tuesday. It expects 77 million returns.

Friday's total was 52.3 million returns, compared to 50.7 million at the same time last year, a jump of 3.3 per cent. Of those, 32.7 million taxpayers will receive refunds, compared to 30 million last year.

This year's refunds totaled $7.8 billion as of Friday, up 31.7 per cent from the $5.9 billion certified at the end of the comparable week of 1969.

IRS officials say the refunds are larger because the 10 per cent surcharge was withheld all of last year, but withholding began two or three months after the surtax was imposed in 1968.

Because of the delay, taxpayers had to pay the extra 10 per cent for the time it was not deducted from their paychecks.

Although the April 15 deadline is a yearly albatross for most people, anyone outside the country today gets an automatic extension, until June 15. One person taking advantage of this provision is astronaut Jack L. Swigert Jr., who forgot to file his return before leaving for the Moon.

Servicemen in Vietnam have until six months after they leave the combat zone.

Although the IRS doesn't talk tough in public about late returns, it can levy a stiff penalty if people who owe it money file after the deadline.

Under a new law the penalty is one-half of one per cent of the amount due for every month or part of a month the money is late, up to a maximum of 25 per cent.

Forest Fires Bring Charges

CROSSETT, Ark. (AP) — Marvin Henslee of near Hamburg was charged Tuesday with arson in the setting of six forest fires Monday night.

Sheriff Bill Furlough of Ashley County said the charge was filed on information received from J. C. Ross, director of the Arkansas Forestry Service station at Crossett.

Furlough said Henslee was an employee of the Georgia Pacific Corp. plant at Crossett.

Some Very Important Questions About Being Normal or Abnormal

By HAL BOYLE
NEW YORK (AP) — Are you normal, too normal, or too abnormal?

These are important questions in a world in which many people are living at a pace that is out of this world. Others, trying to survive, have withdrawn so deeply within a shell that the question arises as to whether they are dwelling in a nutshell.

No one would want to submit the degree of his sanity to the judgment of a computer. Anyone who would trust a machine that far would already have to be far gone.

It is possible, however, for a person to find out for himself just how normal he is. All he has to do is answer a series of simple questions, such as:

If you found a good parking place, would you try to keep it for yourself?

Can you lose your head when all around you are losing theirs, and still manage to blame it on them?

If you are a member of the middle class, do you believe the government's present tax program is designed to squeeze that class to death? Is it impossible for you to

Judicial Record of New High Court Selection Not Easy to Pin Down

By DON McLEOD
Associated Press Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — The judicial record of Supreme Court nominee Harry A. Blackmun, a federal appeals judge considered a strict constructionist by President Nixon, does not appear that easy to pin down.

The judge himself brushed aside labels shortly after he learned Tuesday in St. Louis, where he sits on the U.S. 8th Court of Appeals, that Nixon had named him to fill the vacancy created almost a year ago with the resignation of Justice Abe Fortas.

"I've been called liberal and conservative," Blackmun said. "Labels are deceiving. I call them as I see them."

Blackmun, 61, who lives in Rochester, Minn., has been compared judicially with his old friend and fellow Minnesotan, Chief Justice Warren E. Burger of the Supreme Court, as being fairly liberal on civil rights issues and strict on the rights of criminal defendants.

Nixon, who has frequently criticized court decisions expanding the rights of defendants in criminal cases, was reported by White House press secretary Ronald L. Ziegler to have been highly impressed when he studied Blackmun's judicial record.

Twice Blackmun wrote decisions turning back challenges to the constitutionality of the death penalty. One of them is before the Supreme Court now in a major test case, apparently deadlocked awaiting a ninth justice. But Blackmun would not be able to help out in this case since he wrote the decision being challenged.

Governor to Speak at Rosston

Governor Winthrop Rockefeller has accepted an invitation to speak at the Dedication of the Swine Producers Feeder-Pig Complex in Rosston, Nevada County, on Wednesday, April 22, 1970, at 4:30 p.m.

The Rosston Swine Producers Association is a division of the Oak Grove Neighborhood Council, one of thirty neighborhood councils under the Southwest Arkansas Development Council's office of Economic Opportunity jurisdiction.

The Swine Production Program is one of many anti-poverty programs administered by SWADC. This particular program is designed to help families with low incomes, improve their diets and supplement their income.

Governor Rockefeller has consented to give the dedicatory address at the event, which will take place at the Oak Grove School, Rosston, Arkansas, at 4:30 p.m.

H. Hawthorne Announces for Re-election

The Hope Star has been authorized to announce the candidacy of Harry Hawthorne for re-election to the office of Hempstead County Treasurer. In making his announcement, Mr. Hawthorne issued the following statement:

"To the citizens of Hempstead County: I take this means of announcing my candidacy for re-election as Treasurer of Hempstead County."

"It has been a privilege and a pleasure to have served you in this capacity, and I assure you that if I am re-elected to the Treasurer's Office, I will continue to devote my time and efforts in fulfilling the duties of this office in a proper and efficient manner."

"I am deeply grateful to the citizens of Hempstead County for the splendid support you have given me in the Past, and will appreciate your vote and support in the coming Democratic Primary Election." Respectfully, lenged. Last week the Supreme Court overturned a Blackmun decision rejecting the contention that a man was placed in double jeopardy when he was tried twice in connection with the robbery of a poker game.

Burger, in his first major lone dissent as a member of the high court, called the decision of his colleagues "a case of expanding a sound basic principle beyond the bounds, or needs, of its rational and legitimate, objectives to preclude harassment of an accused."

But Blackmun's reasoning in the case is not entirely clear. He had predicted the opinion might be reversed, and implied the ultimate decision, in any case, should be made by the Supreme Court.

Vietnamese Bodies Float in River

By T. JEFF WILLIAMS
Associated Press Writer
NEAK LEUNG, Cambodia (AP) — The bodies of hundreds of Vietnamese floated down the Mekong River in southeast Cambodia today, many with their hands tied behind them. It appeared to be the biggest mass killing yet revealed in Cambodia.

A police official at the Neak Leung ferry crossing 36 miles southeast of Phnom Penh, the Cambodian capital, said he had counted 400 bodies this morning. But still they came, and more could be seen for a mile up the river, until it disappeared around a bend.

The stench was overpowering, and passengers on the ferry gagged as the boat moved through the bodies.

Some women were among the slain but very few. Most were men clad only in black shorts. One group of eight bodies, including one woman, floated by tied together.

Cambodians along the bank including the police said they had no idea where the bodies came from.

The government leaders who deposed Prince Norodom Sihanouk have been whipping up an anti-Vietnamese campaign directed not only at the thousands of Viet Cong and North Vietnamese troops who operate back and forth across the border with South Vietnam but at the 600,000 Vietnamese who live in Cambodia.

The Khmer people of Cambodia and the Annamites of Vietnam have been traditional enemies for centuries, and government planes dropped leaflets in Phnom Penh Saturday reminding

City Applies for Low Cost Housing

The City of Hope recently filed an application to obtain one of ten prototype low cost housing projects that the government is building under a program known as "Operation Breakthrough."

While Hope was not successful in the application, the Washington office of the Department of Housing and Urban Development advised that if the City was still interested they would make the information furnished in the application available to private developers. The Board of City Directors, at their meeting last night, requested that the information be furnished to private developers in order that they could explore the possibility of developing the project by private capital.

An ordinance was read to establish zoning regulations for the area annexed to the City at the election in 1969. The Planning and Zoning Commission have previously held a public hearing on the area and recommended the proposed zoning regulation.

The subject of operating the Sanitary land fill for disposal of trash and garbage was discussed at considerable length. A recent law enacted by the State Legislature prohibits any burning of waste except in a manner that meets the requirements of the new Air Pollution Law. The City is exploring the use of an incinerator to be used for burning, and are investigating available equipment that is now on the market and contacting sanitary engineers who have had experience in hand-

Ties Cockrill to WR as a Running Mate

LITTLE ROCK (AP) — The Memphis Commercial Appeal reported today that Gov. Winthrop Rockefeller has asked a leading Democratic legislator to be his running mate if the governor seeks re-election this year.

The article identified the legislator as Rep. Sterling R. Cockrill Jr., 45, of Little Rock, who is the Democratic party majority leader in the Arkansas House and was speaker of the House in 1967.

John Bennett of the Memphis newspaper's Little Rock bureau reported that Lt. Gov. Maurice "Footsie" Britt had been asked to manage Rockefeller's campaign.

Cockrill and Britt would not confirm or deny the report. Gov. Winthrop Rockefeller could not be reached for comment. The article attributed the information to sources identified only as reliable.

Rockefeller has not said whether he will seek a third term, but he has said that he is giving "serious consideration" to the best interests of Arkansas and the Republican party.

Saratoga School Plan Struck Down

ST. LOUIS (AP) — A federal appeals court panel struck down a freedom of choice desegregation plan in two Arkansas school districts today and ordered a new plan to achieve integration implemented by the start of school this fall.

The action came in a consent decree agreed to in advance by Negro plaintiffs, the U.S. Department of Health, Education and Welfare and school officials in Mineral Springs and Saratoga, Ark.

The action directs the U.S. District Court at Texarkana, Ark., to require the school boards at Saratoga and Mineral Springs to submit a new desegregation plan based on zoning or such other techniques as may be appropriate to convert to a unitary school system.

Astronauts Are Nursing Disabled Craft Toward a Splashdown Friday

A Tropical Storm Could Be Threat

By VERN HAUGLAND
AP Aviation Writer

ABOARD USS IWO JIMA (AP) — A tropical storm that could give birth to a hurricane lumbered toward the Apollo 13 splashdown site today but recovery ship officials said they expected no weather they could not cope with.

Observers aboard the two Jima kept a close watch on Tropical Storm Helen as it moved across the Pacific at less than six miles per hour.

If it keeps up its present course and speed forecasters said the storm's fringe could be as near as 230 miles to the target point when Apollo 13 returns to earth Friday.

Winds near the center of the storm were clocked at nearly 50 miles per hour and gusts up to about 35 m.p.h. lashed out from the center for 150 miles.

The ship's meteorologist, Lt. R. B. Olds, said the storm probably will intensify. "It could very well become a hurricane," he said. He added that Helen, traveling southeastward, could take a more southerly course and speed up.

Officials noted that if the weather creates critical problems the astronauts could maneuver their craft to land 200 miles beyond or short of the splashdown target, about 600 miles south of Samoa.

Capt. Leland F. Kirkemo, commander of the recovery ship, said he anticipated no problems even if the splashdown occurred in winds of around 45 m.p.h. He said several practice exercises already had been conducted in winds of that velocity off Hawaii.

Space agency officials on board expressed confidence that if the astronauts enter the earth's atmosphere, the landing will go normally.

The two Jima was expected to remain within 100 miles of Samoa until late today when Rear Adm. Donald C. Davis, commander of recovery forces in the Pacific, was scheduled to arrive aboard ship by helicopter.

The ship will head for the splashdown area late today or early Thursday. Plans call for the astronauts to be flown by helicopter to Samoa Saturday for a flight by jet back to Houston.

Station Control to Be Decided

Must Change Course or Miss Earth

SPACE CENTER, Houston (AP) — Mission Control reported today that the Apollo 13 spaceship was off course and must make a midcourse engine correction tonight or Thursday if it is to return to earth. If the firing is not successful, the spaceship would miss the earth by 104 miles and probably would have no way to get home.

However, officials noted that the chances of making the course correction were "excellent." The normal firing would be done with the engine of the lunar module, a powerplant that fired flawlessly Tuesday night.

A burn of only a few seconds is required to alter the course to aim at the desired landing area in the Pacific Ocean.

If the lunar module engine should fail, the astronauts could use the small control jets on the side of either the lunar module or the command ship.

Astronauts James A. Lovell, Fred W. Haise and John L. Swigert are scheduled to make the midcourse correction at 9:13 p.m. tonight. However, officials are considering delaying it until 12:13 p.m. Thursday.

Splashdown is set for 1:04 p.m. EST Friday.

There was no explanation how the spaceship veered off a so-called free return trajectory which would have brought it back to a landing on earth even if no midcourse were attempted. The space agency had said Tuesday that the Apollo 13 ship was on such a path.

Splashdown is set for 12:18 p.m. EST Friday. However the recovery area southeast of Samoa was threatened by Tropical Storm Helen and the astronauts might have to shift their landing site.

After hours of calm but tense composure following Monday night's oxygen tank rupture that wiped out their moon landing attempt, the astronauts today were in better spirits. For the first time since the chilling accident that drained oxygen and electrical power from the command ship they joked with Mission Control.

They were buoyed Tuesday night when astronaut boss Donald K. Slayton radioed: "We think you guys are in good shape all the way around. Why don't you quit worrying and go to sleep?"

"We think that is a pretty good idea," Lovell said. "And at least part of us will."

The astronauts have been sleeping in shifts so that at least one is up at all times to monitor the lunar module systems.

But in the hectic hours after the accident there was little time for rest and Lovell complained Monday night: "We've gone a hell of a long time without sleep."

The lunar craft Aquarius is hooked nose-to-nose with the command ship and the tiny ship's oxygen is being used to supply both craft. The astronauts transfer back and forth through a connecting tunnel.

Early today Haise, standing watch while his companions slept, reported a slight venting of gas from the area of the command ship's service compartment, where the oxygen tank ruptured Monday. He also said he saw a four-inch piece of silver-colored metal float away from the area.

Man Held for Possession of Food Stamps

LITTLE ROCK (AP) — U.S. Commissioner John E. Coates ruled Tuesday that there was sufficient cause for holding Charles James McMullan, 20, of Scott for action in U.S. District Court on a charge of acquiring and possessing $2,000 worth of food stamps in a manner not authorized by the Food Stamp Act of 1964.
